James Ward

James D. Ward serves Scientific Research Corporation (SRC) as Executive Vice President of the Integrated Systems and Solutions Division. He is responsible for the leadership of over 900 engineers and scientists in Charleston and throughout the world. Since joining SRC, Mr. Ward has helped establish SRC as a leader in the cyber defense business space. Currently over 400 of the local Charleston engineers and scientists are focused on critical, leading-edge cyber challenges such as defending the Navy’s network.

A native of Hampton, Virginia, Mr. Ward holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Electrical Engineering from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University and a Master of Business Administration degree from the College of William and Mary. He is a graduate of the Federal Executive Institute and completed the Senior Fellows Program of the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University.

Mr. Ward entered the Senior Executive Service in 2003 as the Executive Director of the Space and Naval Warfare Systems Center (SPAWAR), Charleston, serving in that position until 2008.
